Beginning on January 29 2024, the ISO will implement user and system rate limiting for Private Downloads from the CRR MUI. This is needed to enhance the stability of the system. The following warning messages will be implemented:

New Messages

The rate limit for CRR SCID downloading is one concurrent private download at a time. When one download is complete another can start. If this limit is exceeded, user will see this error message:

Private Downloads > General Data

Your download requests are denied due to too many concurrent downloads. Please wait for the previous download request to complete before continue to the next download
The rate limit for CRR System downloading is four concurrent private downloads. If this limit is exceeded, users will receive the following error message:

Private Downloads > General Data

Your download requests are denied due to too many concurrent downloads. Please try later

What should I do if I see these messages?

Recommendations and tips

- Download one report at a time and wait for a response before proceeding to the next UI download request.
- Avoid downloading the same report multiple times each day.
- Refer to the posted www.caiso.com CRR Market calendar, to know when auction/allocation market publication scheduled days occur. Here's an example:

Current processes

The CRR processes are separated into two distinct markets; the allocation and auction. Each of these markets award CRRs valid for annual and monthly periods. The allocation markets are open to registered CRR load serving entities while the auction is open to all registered CRR entities that post sufficient collateral.
