Radback Energy is the owner and developer of the Oakley Project (also known as the Contra Costa Generating Station LLC). Radback appreciates the opportunity to provide comments on the CAISO 2014/15 Study Plan.

The Oakley Project should remain included in the study process. CCGS has a fully developed CEC approved project with financing in place. We have a contract with PG&E. We are confident the project will be built and come on line in a timely manner. The status of any sort of contract is not a criteria to exclude projects from the study. If this indeed is a criteria, then the length and period of contracts for ALL projects should be reviewed in detail and ALL of those projects should be evaluated for elimination/inclusion from the planning database for those periods.
