Brian,

We appreciate the CAISO engaging in creative thinking about solutions to the commitment bridging issue. However, we feel that self-scheduling end-of-day hours simply to establish the unit is on for the initial conditions for the IFM is too sizeable a risk, in that it still provides no guarantee that the unit will be picked up by the IFM for the next day for a period contiguous with the self-scheduled hours at the end of the day. We'd urge the CAISO to aggressively push forward with consideration of a multi-day IFM time horizon.

Thanks for the opportunity to comment.
