CALIFORNIA INDEPENDENT SYSTEM OPERATOR INTRODUCES NEW WEBSITE

(Folsom, CA) - Keeping up with electricity restructuring just got easier with today's introduction of Cal-ISO's new website at www.caiso.com. Interested web surfers may read and download a wide variety of industry-related documents, news releases and photos. The website's menu items currently include:

About the ISO This menu selection provides general information about the mission and infrastructure of the Cal-ISO. Look for answers to frequently asked questions about the ISO, control room facts and a transmission grid map, an organizational chart and bios of Cal-ISO officers.

ISO News This is the place to find news releases, public information officers for market participants, and public notices.

The New Marketplace Two primers on the restructured electricity marketplace are available here: one is a visual journey through the industry; the second provides a text narration.

Market Participants Industry watchers and participants will find this menu offering of continual use as it contains tariffs governing the ISO's operation, protocols and draft agreements for market participants, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission filings and rulings, the Open Access Same-Time Information System (OASIS), which supplies public market information, a list of scheduling coordinator applications, and a link to the Scheduling Coordinators User Group website.

Public Information A location holding all notices of Cal-ISO public meetings, and updates on Cal-ISO's progress toward meeting its start date by March 31, 1998.

Board of Governors A compendium of upcoming board and committee meetings and updates on Cal-ISO's progress.
